

1/4

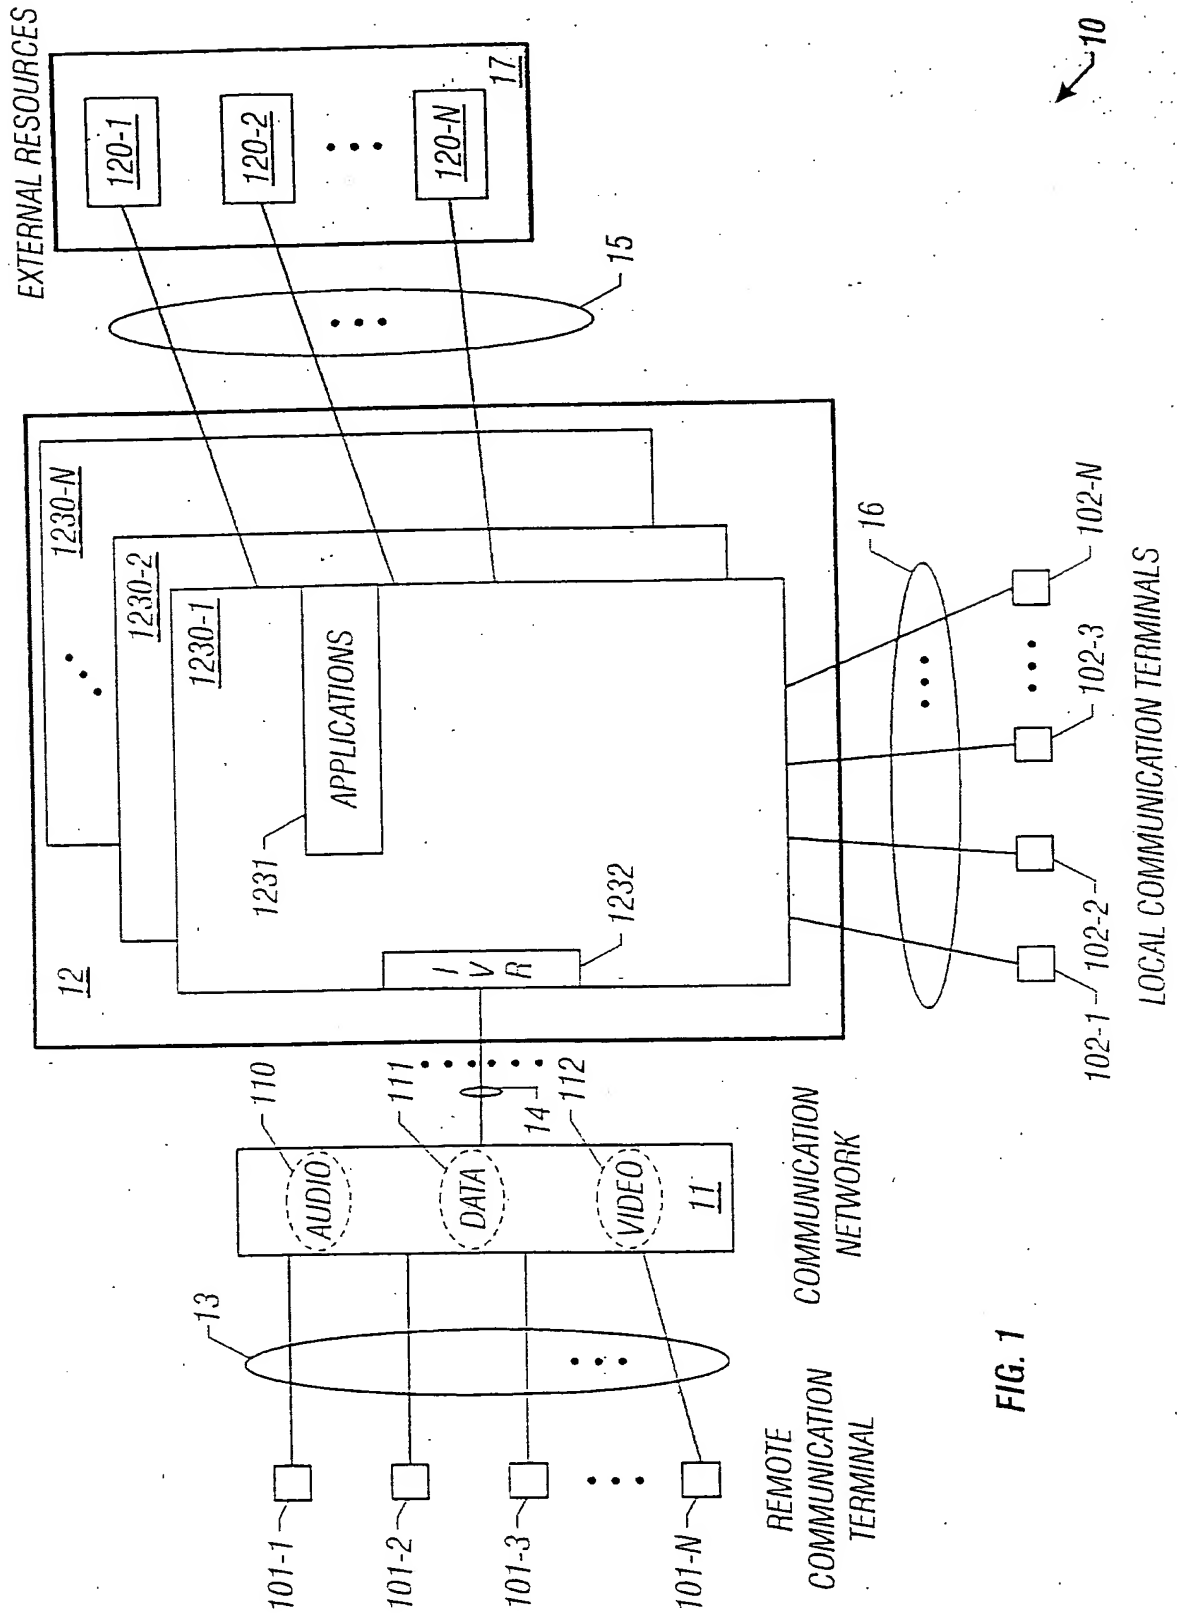

FIG. 1

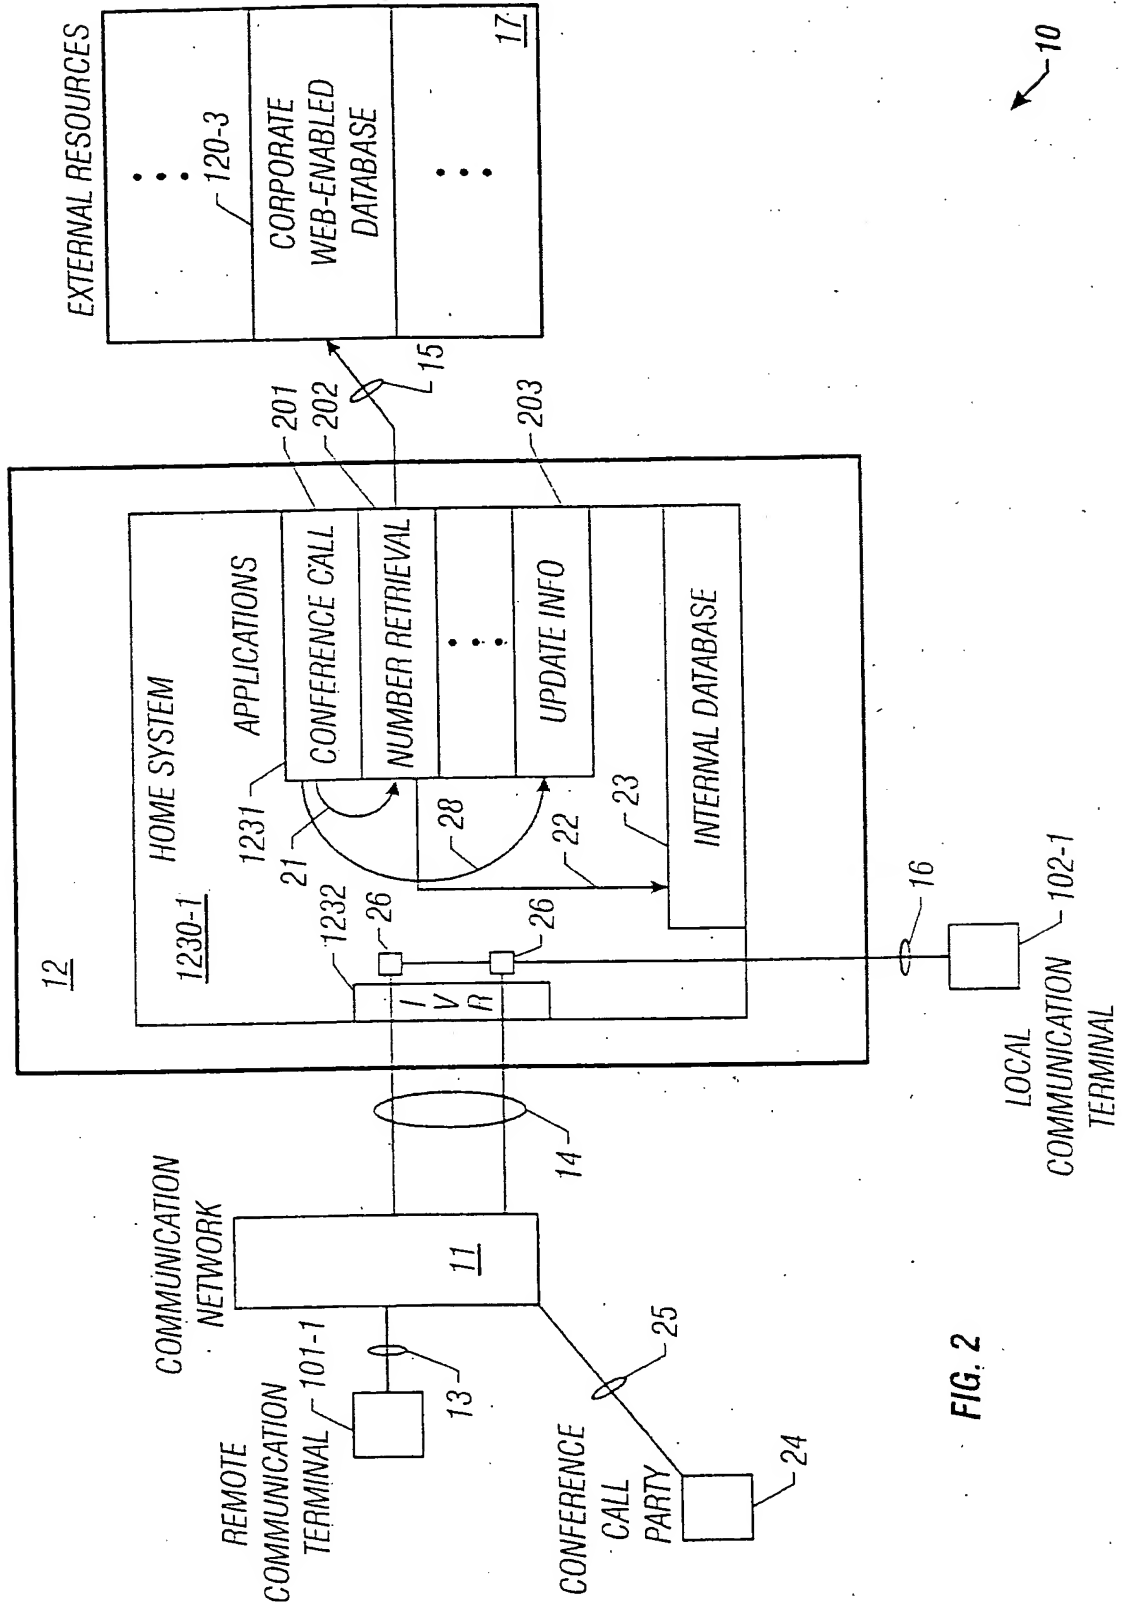

FIG. 2

3/4

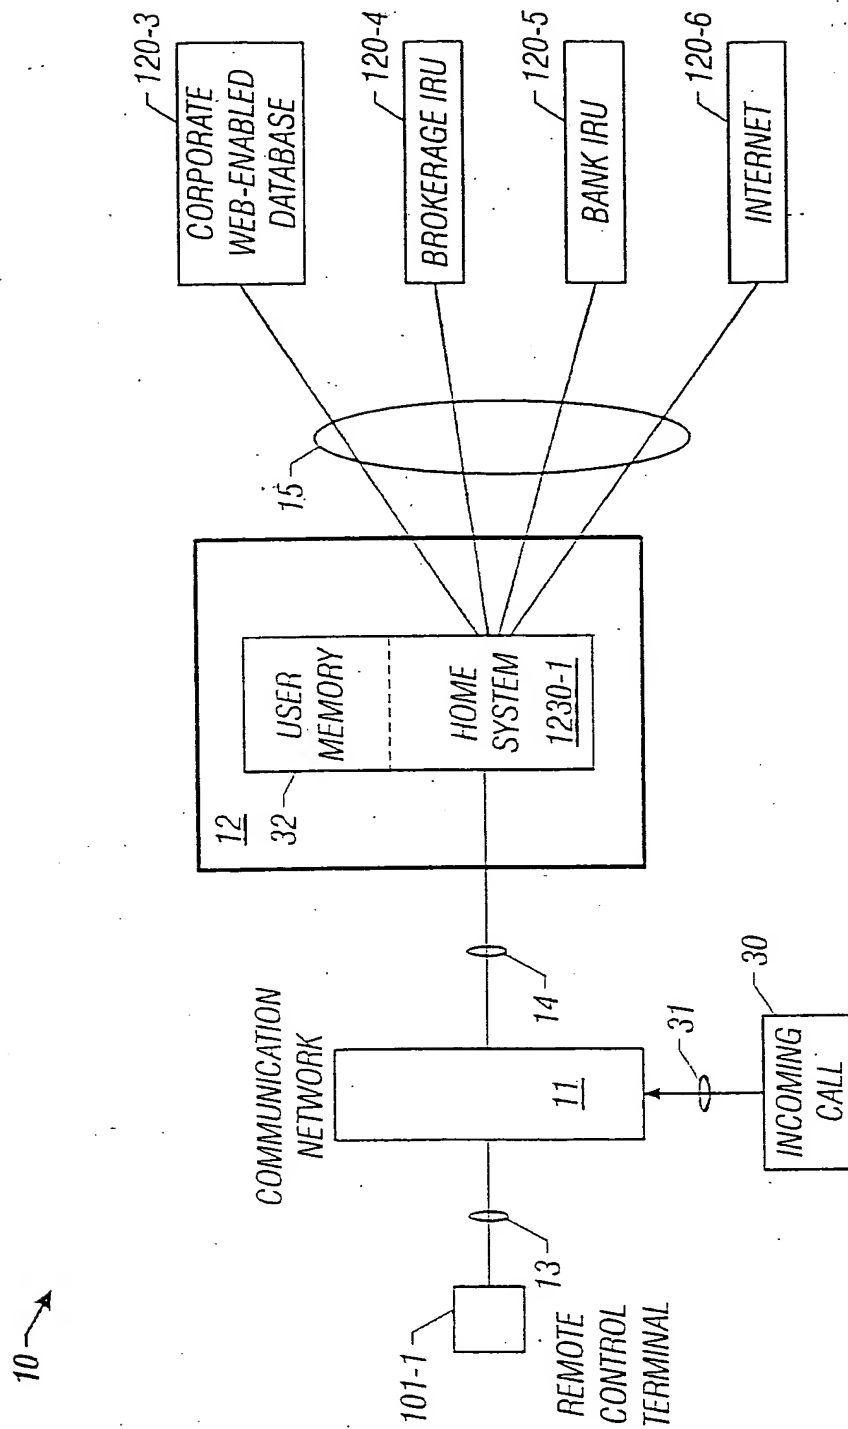

FIG. 3

400

FIG. 4

401

Associate server with user terminals over communication network

401(a)

Provide messaging services

Automatically sending notification signals to user terminal when server receives a message related to user terminals and
Sending messages to a user terminal in response to a request by a user terminal

402

Receive communication information from user terminals

403

Access applications responsive to communication information

403(a)

Server may:

1. determine which applications to run by accessing user memory (or)
2. automatically access one or more applications based on sender identification data contained in a message.

404

Send communication information obtained by applications to user terminals

404(a)

communication data processed or obtained by an application may be sent to user terminals with a message